

Grassland Research Awards for Student Scholarship

GRASS Submission Requirements

Congratulations on being selected for a California Grassland Research Awards for Student Scholarship (GRASS). We commend you for your research focused on understanding, preserving, and restoring California's native grassland ecosystems in accordance with the CNGA Mission and Goals. Upon accepting your award, you agreed to these submission requirements:

- Recipients are required to submit at least one journal article to the CNGA publication Grasslands and/or present their work at the CNGA GRASS Award Speaker Series.
- The CNGA GRASS Grant Program should be acknowledged in theses, publications, or other products resulting from your research.

We do not expect students to complete their research in one year. Therefore, you may submit any of these items in lieu of an original research article:

- Research overview
- Visit a grassland
- Species spotlight

You may find information on article types and submission guidelines at: <https://cnga.org/Grasslands-Journal>.

Alternatively, or in addition to a written article, you may present your work at the CNGA GRASS Award Speaker Series (ADD LINK TO VIDEO ARCHIVE FOR REFERENCE). Please contact us at grass@cnga.org to schedule a presentation slot.

If you applied for and received two years of scholarship funds, you will need to complete two of these options—one for each year.
