Our Work

Founded in 1991, the California Native Grasslands Association (CNGA) represents people concerned with the continued loss and degradation of California's grasslands, the most threatened ecosystem in California. Agriculture, invasion by exotic species, development, and other human-related activities have reduced California native grasslands by 99%. An astounding 90% of California's rare plant species live in grasslands. Birds and insects that rely on grasslands are among the fastest declining species in North America.
