Putah Creek Lodge at U.C. Davis Arboretum

Fees: $150/CNGA Members, $175/Non-members, $95/Students w ID

The objective of this full-day classroom course is to acquaint landowners, land managers, agency personnel, contractors, consultants, and others with proven techniques and strategies for restoration and revegetation using native grassland species. This workshop will help you plan your fall projects.

Experienced experts will cover topics including:

- Site evaluation
- Species selection
- Site preparation
- Planting techniques
- Weed control
- Long-term management

Instructors:

- Vic Claassen, Soil Scientist, U.C. Davis
- Miles DaPrato, U.C. Davis Putah Creek Riparian Reserve
- JP Marié, U.C. Davis Putah Creek Riparian Reserve
- Patrick Reynolds, Hedgerow Farms
- Chris Rose, Solano County R.C.D.
- Bryan Young, Sacramento Regional Wastewater, Bufferland

At the end of the course, individuals who are planning, implementing, or managing native grassland projects should be able to apply many of the techniques and strategies learned in the course.

- We will provide morning coffee & snacks.
- Bring your own lunch to eat in the beautiful UC Davis Arboretum.
- Directions & parking will be emailed to registered attendees.
